DARTMOOR GAOL ESCAPE: THREE-DAY MAN HUNT

ADMIRAL'S OUTBURST

BRITAIN'S NAVAL STRENGTH

BERLIN BETTER PLEASED

BRITISH POLICY WELCOMED

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received, Nov. 19, 9.15 a.m.)

London, Nov. 19. Complete satisfaction is expressed in German political circles with the British policy apropos the German claim to armaments equality, as with Italy's speedy endorsement of the British declaration.

Sir John Simon's speech is regarded in Berlin as complete recognition of Germany's claim.

A German Foreign Office spokesman said last night: "Now that Britain and Italy have sided with Germany, it is up to France to take a decisive step to bring back Germany into the Disarmament Conference."

MADDEN MADDENED.

London, Nov. 18. A strong attack on Britain's disarmament policy and the Disarmament Conference generally was made by Admiral Sir Charles Madden in a speech at a reunion of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve to-night.

Early in his speech, he referred to "one of these internal disarmament conferences," and added: "Everyone wants to reduce the British Navy. A great many countries would like to see us reduced."

CAUSE OF WAR.

"But the cause of war," he added ominously, "is policy and there are two countries in Europe with aggressive policies."

"One of these aggressive countries is Russia, and the other is in North Europe."

"The announced intention of re-arming to disarm, is to invite attack."—Reuter.

HUNTING FIELD TRAGEDY

GENERAL DIES OF HEART ATTACK

London, Nov. 18. Major General Cator, General Officer Commanding the London Territorial Troops, died to-day in the hunting field in Wiltshire. He had a heart attack while galloping across a field and fell dead from his horse.

He served throughout the Great War and in 1916-17 directed the attack of Territorial Troops on Passchendaele Ridge. He was 55 years old.—British Wireless.

COMMISSIONER OF ASHANTI

MAJOR JACKSON APPOINTED

London, Nov. 18. Major Jackson, Chief Commissioner of the Northern Territories of the Gold Coast, has been selected for appointment as Chief Commissioner of Ashanti, in succession to Mr. H. S. Newlands, who was recently appointed Governor of Barbados.—British Wireless.

JOHN GIALDINI GOES FREE

RECENT AMNESTY HELD TO APPLY

Rome, Nov. 18. The sentence of five years' imprisonment passed in 1931 upon John Gialdini in connection with the Hater financial crash was quashed by the Court of Appeal to-day by the automatic application of the recent amnesty. The court did not discuss the merits of the Gialdini case.—Reuter.

CYPRUS HOTEL TRAGEDY

NAVAL OFFICER GIVEN LEAVE TO APPEAL

PRIVY COUNCIL

London, Nov. 18. After listening to the submissions of Sir William Jowitt, K.C., former Attorney-General, on behalf of Commander J. G. Sutton, R.N., convicted at Limassol, Cyprus, on a charge of manslaughter, the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council granted him leave to appeal. The sentence passed on the naval officer was six months' imprisonment. He was charged following the death of a Limassol hotel-keeper named Apostolides.

COMMANDER'S VERSION.

His own version of the manner in which the hotel-keeper met with fatal injuries is that, accompanied by other officers, he visited a show at a dancing place and there met a Turkish dancer, who after the show asked for a lift. While in the cab the girl on her own initiative suggested that Commander Sutton should visit the hotel kept by Apostolides. On their arrival he told the girl he had no money, and she left almost immediately.

When going out he was followed by Apostolides, who asked to stay. The next thing Commander Sutton knew was that Apostolides was falling downstairs. He helped him up, and Apostolides followed him for some distance, but again fell down. Commander Sutton says he turned back to render assistance, as he saw that Apostolides had fainted and blood was on his face.

DOCTOR'S OPINION.

Unable to do anything himself, Commander Sutton went in the opposite direction to get help. He met some people and asked them to get a doctor. Afterwards he conducted them to where the hotel-keeper lay and they helped Apostolides back to his hotel. After ascertaining that Apostolides was better, Commander Sutton asked one of the witnesses who gave his name to wire him regarding the man's condition.

Dr. Gosden gave evidence that in his opinion the fracture of the skull and other injuries could be accounted for by the man rolling down steps head over heels. He also expressed the view that the injuries could have been caused by a succession of blows or falls. A native witness alleged that he saw Commander Sutton beating Apostolides in the street.

Picture shows the excellent progress which is being made towards the completion of the steel bridge across the Pearl River, linking Canton with Honan. It is expected to be opened for traffic in February. The bridge is being constructed by Messrs. MacDonnell and Gorman, Inc., the materials being supplied by Messrs. Andersen, Meyer and Co., Ltd.

BENGALI TERRORIST OUTRAGE

SIR CHARLES LUKE WOUNDED

WIFE & DAUGHTER ESCAPE

Calcutta, Nov. 18. Sir Charles Luke, the Chief Superintendent of the Central Gaol at Rajshahi, was to-day the victim of the latest outrage by Bengali terrorists.

Sir Charles was out driving with his wife and daughter when a powerful motor-car drew level with their vehicle and a series of shots were fired at Sir Charles from close range.

He was wounded both in the face and the neck and was rushed to hospital immediately after the outrage in a serious condition. Neither his wife nor his daughter were injured.

The assailants of the Prison Superintendent escaped.—Reuter.

PHEMIUS BADLY DAMAGED

MONTH TO EFFECT REPAIRS

It is disclosed in a cable just received by Messrs. Butterfield and Swire from Kingston, Jamaica, that heavy damage was suffered by the Blue Funnel Line steamer PheMIUS as a result of the severe buffeting she received when hit by a hurricane in the Caribbean Sea recently.

The cargo was also badly damaged, according to the message. Repairs to the steamer are expected to take a further four weeks, after which the PheMIUS will resume her voyage to Hongkong.

TWO CONVICTS AT LARGE

BLOODHOUNDS PICK UP AND LOSE TRAIL

FUGITIVES' QUEER ELUSIVENESS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT).

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received, November 19, 9.43 a.m.)

London, November 19. AFTER A RELENTLESS MAN-HUNT WHICH HAS OCCUPIED POLICE, WARDERS AND VOLUNTEER PURSUERS FOR MORE THAN SIXTY HOURS, TWO CONVICTS WHO ESCAPED FROM DARTMOOR PRISON ON WEDNESDAY ARE STILL AT LARGE.

The pursuers are mystified. They are quite certain that the escaped convicts have not succeeded in getting clear of the bleak Dartmoor countryside. Bloodhounds have been employed and actually got on to the trail of the fugitives, only to break down when the scent failed with remarkable abruptness in the middle of the moor.

Evidence that the prisoners are still in the vicinity of the prison has been forthcoming in a robbery at a local railway station, but although the prisoners must have been kept on the move by the pressure of the pursuit neither of them has been seen since the moment of their escape.

ROB STATION EIGHT MILES AWAY

The man-hunt is continuing and the authorities are certain that their net is now closing round the area where the runaways must be sheltering. It is, however, exceedingly strange that while the whole countryside has been on the alert, on the look-out for the convicts ever since Dartmoor's warning bell tolled frantically on the morning of November 16, nobody has caught even a glimpse of the fugitives.

Chocolate and clothes. Evidence of their presence was, nevertheless, found at Horra Bridge Station, only eight miles from the prison, which was ransacked during the night of December 17-18, the convicts getting away with a fairly large stock of chocolate and the staff's clothing.

Bloodhounds were immediately taken to the scene of the robbery and they found the trail of the fugitives. They had evidently visited the station early in the evening and spent the dark hours travelling as rapidly as possible away from the prison. The bloodhounds followed the trail for a few miles, but it suddenly petered out. The searchers are, however, convinced that the prisoners could not have made much further progress during the night and that they must have hidden up during the daytime.

WIDE CORDON THROWN. The whole area has been surrounded, a wide cordon, covering several miles having been thrown out to prevent the convicts from breaking through during the early hours of this morning. Dartmoor proudly claims that no convict has ever escaped from Dartmoor and avoided subsequent recapture.

ESCAPE IN MIST. The men were working with a field party on Wednesday when a mist, such as is frequent on Dartmoor, swept suddenly down and gave them an opportunity for a daring breakaway.

The alarm was sounded within a few minutes of their disappearance, extra police were drafted into the area within an hour. Despite all the efforts at recapture, however, the fugitives have so far eluded their pursuers.

MANCHULI HOSTAGES PERIL

MR. T. V. SOONG'S APPEAL

CHINA'S CAUSE

(Special to "Telegraph").

Shanghai, Nov. 19. Much interest has been created by a report from Tokyo to the effect that Mr. T. V. Soong has sent a message to General Su Ping-wen, head of the Volunteer forces at Manchuli urging him to ensure the safety of the lives of his Japanese hostages.

Mr. T. V. Soong appeals to Su Ping-wen not to take drastic action even if the Japanese launch the offensive which is threatened "as anything in the nature of reprisals would be most damaging to the Chinese cause abroad."

Although no confirmation of the report has been obtained, it seems very likely that it is correct as, in the absence of Mr. Wang Ching-wei abroad and of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek at Hankow, Mr. T. V. Soong is virtually head of the Chinese Government.

SU PING WEN'S POSITION.

General Su Ping-wen is apparently determined not to yield an inch in his stand not to negotiate with the Japanese, who, unless they secure an amicable agreement with him, are faced with the alternative of launching a costly and difficult military expedition on leaving him in control of the whole stretch of the Chinese Eastern Railway between the Hingan Mountain range and Manchuli.—Reuter.

NEW MENACE TO HARBIN

ADVANCE BY 33,000 VOLUNTEERS

JAPANESE MASS FORCES

Harbin, Nov. 19. One of the most important struggles in Manchuria is fore-shadowed in news stating that Japanese and Manchukuo expeditions from various points have started out to check the advance of 33,000 Volunteers who have taken up a line to the north-west of Harbin, in the vicinity of Paichuan. This huge force of Volunteers is preparing to advance towards

AMY TALKS WITH HUSBAND

STRAIN OF SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

MOLLISON VERY PROUD

London, Nov. 18. Mrs. Amy Mollison completed her great flight from England to Capetown at 1.30 G.M.T., thus establishing a new record for the 6,200-miles journey. Her time was four days, six hours, fifty-two minutes, the previous record, held by her husband being four days, seventeen hours, twenty-two minutes.

A vast crowd assembled at Capetown to witness her arrival, and the air-woman was overwhelmed with congratulations on her magnificent achievement.

PROUD HUSBAND.

Within a few minutes of landing, she was in telephonic communication with her husband in London, who assured her of the personal pride he felt in her performance, which, he said, would probably do more to advance British aviation than any single flight had yet done.

When Mr. Mollison suggested that she must be very tired after four days' flight, during which she has had only five hours' sleep, she said she was not too tired to go on talking.

TERRIFIC STRAIN.

In a broadcast talk at Capetown, however, Amy said the strain of sleeplessness had been terrific. Referring to her experience on the journey, she said the worst stretch was from Durban to Ben-guella, flown by night.

Army's machine, the "Desert Cloud," is a standard De Havilland Puss Moth cabin aeroplane, fitted with a Gipsy Major engine of 130 horse-power, equipped with special petrol tanks. Normally these machines carry tanks of 35 gallons capacity, but by utilising the space occupied by back seats for fuel tanks, the capacity was increased to 120 gallons, the range being increased from 650 to 1,850 miles.

Her route was the most direct possible, halts being made at Barcelona, Oran in Algeria, Gao, Niume, Duala, Benguella and Mossamedes.—British Wireless.

FOUR CONSTABLES CHARGED

BRIBERY OFFENCES ALLEGED

In consequence of certain statements by a Chinese charged, the other day with procuring bribes for members of the Cantonese section of the Hongkong Police Force, four Chinese constables named as witnesses in that case, were taken into Mr. Wynne-Jones' Court to-day and charged with receiving bribes either directly or indirectly, from certain hawkers in Jubilee Street. They were also charged with misconduct.

The defendants, To Fuk, To Tam, Kwong Wai and Fung F were all involved in the prosecution against the hawker, who is on remand.

On the application of Chief Detective Inspector A.N. Reynolds defendants were all remanded one week on £250 bail each.

The Chinese Eastern Railway semi-circular formation. The Japanese and Manchukuo forces have a decided advantage inasmuch as they are supported by Japanese bombing squadrons, Japanese bombers, Japanese aircraft and fighting men, and are this powerless to an attack from the air. Japanese Headquarters declare that a Japanese success would clean up a large area in Heilongjiang, but the outcome is by no means certain.—Reuter.

The Bidding.

The actual bidding was South one No Trump, North two No Trump and South went to three No Trump. The writer would prefer to open the South hand with one diamond due to the fact that the hand holds a singleton.

The Play.

The actual play of the hand, where South bought the contract for three No Trump, was—West opened the seven of spades, the eight was played from dummy. East covered with the queen and the declarer won the trick with his singleton ace. Declarer led the king and queen of hearts and then the nine of hearts. West discarded the four of clubs and dummy won the trick with the jack of hearts. The ace of hearts was led from dummy, declarer dropping the five of clubs and West the deuce of clubs.

The declarer was confident that West originally held five spades and he had signalled in clubs, showing the king. This would leave him with three clubs and a singleton diamond, or two clubs and two diamonds. Therefore the declarer's next play was a small diamond from dummy, East played the ten and declarer won the trick with the ace and returned a small diamond to dummy in order to pull the last diamond from West. If he had one, but West discarded the six of clubs. Dummy won the trick with the king of diamonds and declarer deliberately led his opponent's suit by leading the ten of spades and discarded the four of diamonds from his own hand. West now cashed his three good spade tricks, dummy discarding a diamond and three clubs, East following with three spades and declarer discarding two diamonds and a club. West was now forced to lead a club. If he led the king, the declarer would win with the ace and the queen would be good in dummy, while if a small club was led by West, dummy's pack would hold the trick and the last trick was won by declarer with the ace.

While the declarer had a great deal of luck in finding East without a spade higher than any held by his partner, West, declarer did make the only play that would possibly give him game, and the result of this end play gave him three No Trump.

FAREWELL TO MR. FERGUSON

CHINESE MERCHANTS
PAY TRIBUTE

Members of the Legislative Council, most of the Colony's leading bankers and many distinguished Chinese merchants gathered in the first floor lounge of the Hongkong Hotel yesterday afternoon, to bid an official farewell and make a presentation to Mr. A. H. Ferguson, the Hongkong manager of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China.

Mr. Ferguson has had long and honourable service with the Chartered Bank, and has guided it through periods of difficulty and economic distress. On his return to England, he will take over the management of the head office, London.

Mr. Ho Kom-tong presided over yesterday's gathering in the absence of Sir Robert Ho Tung. On the chairman's right hand was the guest of honour. On his left sat the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, the Hon. Mr. E. R. Hallifax.

Sir Robert Ho Tung's Speech.

After tea had been served, the chairman read the speech which Sir Robert Ho Tung had prepared. It was as follows:

I deem it a great honour to be called upon to act as your spokesman on this occasion. I cannot, however, with equal truth, say that it gives me pleasure untiring with regret, for we are met to say good-bye to a very much esteemed and greatly respected friend.

A few Chinese merchants who have had intimate business relations with the Bank whose destinies Mr. Ferguson guided with such conspicuous success for the past 21 years, and some of his personal Chinese friends feel very deeply the loss they are about to sustain by Mr. Ferguson's promotion from the Hongkong branch of the Chartered Bank to be manager in the head office in London.

It is with the object of testifying to their regard for Mr. Ferguson that we have come together this afternoon to make a small presentation to Mr. Ferguson before he takes his departure from our shores.

It is unnecessary for me to enlarge on Mr. Ferguson's ability as a bank manager; it is known to all whether friends or business acquaintances. His splendid social comradeship is appreciated by all. "Fergie" is spoken of as the best of pals both in European and Chinese circles. His is an outstanding figure, literally and figuratively, winning confidence from friends and respect from his bank's numerous constituents. His geniality pervades the atmosphere of any social gathering; and his business ability is that characteristic of all true Scots—soundness of judgment in deliberation and discriminating caution in action. His largeness of heart is best known to those among us who have gone to Mr. Ferguson in a moment of perplexity and on such an occasion he has proved himself the proverbial friend, indeed who is a friend in need.

Bank's Success.

How conspicuously successful has been the Chartered Bank in Hongkong, during the past 21 years, is shown by the immense prestige which it enjoys, and we recall with pride and gratitude the substantial part the Bank played in the Trade Loan to help the Colony to tide over one of its worst crises. Although Mr. Ferguson leaves us at a time when the Colony is more or less overclouded by the influences of a world-wide depression, we feel confident that we might rely on the sympathetic interest which our old friend "Fergie" can surely exert in the Colony's interests from the managerial sanctum of the head office if Hongkong's need

DIGESTIVE PAIN UNNECESSARY

There is no need to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis, or any such derangement of the digestive organs; in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the cause of these troubles is but acidity and food fermentation, and the remedy is that simple, always efficacious preparation "Bismarck" Magnesia. One dose instantly neutralises the acid, stops the fermentation and induces perfectly normal digestion; in fact, this remedy is so effective that doctors, chemists and nurses the world over recommend and use it. You can take "Bismarck" Magnesia with every confidence; it is safe for young and old, and is obtainable in either tablet or powder form from every chemist. Look for the trade-mark "Bismarck" on the blue carton. It is proof that you have got genuine "Bismarck" Magnesia and the finest thing known for digestive troubles.

should send forth its far-off cry for assistance.

Mr. Ferguson, at the request of my friends, I have much pleasure in handing you this silver bowl. We ask you to accept it as a tribute of our sincere admiration for your business integrity and ungrudging friendly advice. We ask you to retain it as a memento of the enduring friendship which exists between you and the Chinese in Hongkong. We ask you, finally, to retain it in a small corner of your sitting-room in your home when in the quiet hours of an evening, lying back in your easy chair, you recall your association with the Chinese in Hongkong. In conclusion we wish you and your family a pleasant voyage, long life, and much happiness in your home country.

Mr. Ferguson's Reply.

Mr. Ferguson was greeted with applause when he rose to respond. In a characteristically bright speech, he thanked his Chinese friends for their cordial hospitality and regretted that he had to leave the Colony. He made sympathetic reference to the indisposition of Sir Robert Ho Tung, and hoped he would soon be enjoying good health.

Mr. Ferguson laughingly depreciated the "flattering references to myself" and amid laughter suggested that with a halo around his head and wings sprouting from his shoulder blades he might fly home to England.

"I wish to thank the chairman for the eloquent manner in which he has dealt with the speech," he said. "I am glad indeed of this opportunity of saying good-bye to so many of my Chinese friends. It has been a great pleasure for me to feel that spirit of camaraderie which has always existed between us."

"I think we are more deeply indebted to the Chinese than they are to us. Their lavish hospitality is something I will always remember. If the bank's clientele in London is as pleasant to get on with as my Chinese friends around me this afternoon, I shall find the position much easier than I anticipated."

"I am sure that in my sitting room I will look with great pleasure on this silver bowl for it will bring back memories of the happy associations formed here."

"The change to head office is not of my own making. I have had my orders and under the rules of our service, I have to go where I am sent."

"I thank you again for your great kindness and will regard this presentation as a memento of the happy times spent in the Colony."

"My Chinese friends, I thank you." (Applause).

Those Present.

Among those present were the Secretary for Chinese Affairs (Hon. Mr. E. R. Hallifax), the Inspector General of Police (Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe), the Colonial Treasurer (Hon. Mr. E. Taylor), Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton, Hon.

CALL of the WEST

CHAPTER XXVI.

Dona faced her captor with flashing eyes. Stan Ball returned the defiant glance with a grim smile. "My quarters are passable though possibly a trifle primitive for one accustomed to luxury," Stan motioned toward the mouth of a cave. "Will you enter or must I carry you?"

Dona's anger lessened a trifle. Then she thought of her father and panic seized her. He would be up and riding the hills like a mad man when word came that she was a prisoner. Sworin would not keep this news to himself and Dudley would not be able to keep it from Asper. For a moment her determination to play as bold a game as her captor weakened.

"I hate you and loathe you! I wouldn't ask anything from you for myself but this will kill my father." Stan stood with his feet planted wide apart. For a full minute he looked at her. "I'll see that you're back safe at camp in the morning. To let you go to-night would mean that you would be lost in this high country. To take you down to-night would be suicide. Your father has not earned that at my hands."

"I suppose you want me to grant you immunity?" Dona's eyes blazed. "You certainly will have to swear not to reveal this hiding place. I may have to use it several days more in order to make a get-away." Stan's voice was level and hard.

"And I won't promise you anything except that I will escape at the first chance and that I will stop at nothing to have you taken." Dona's cheeks flushed as she gave him her answer. "That's settled then! You stay here as my guest." Stan motioned toward the entrance of the cave.

With her head up Dona entered the dimly lighted interior. Stan pushed her ahead of him and struck a match. By its flickering light the girl made out the rude interior of the place. An old oil lamp stood in a niche in the wall. Stan lighted it and turned up the flame.

"Be seated while I get supper." He nodded toward a stone slab covered with blankets to serve as a bunk. Dona sank down on the pile of blankets and crossed her legs. She was watchful and ready to take any chance. Her eyes took stock of the interior of the room. In a vain search for a rifle or other weapon. There was no gun in the room except the heavy revolver that swung at Ball's hip. Her eyes returned to her lean captor.

Stan bent over an open fireplace shaped of rock slabs with a smoke deflector to send the fumes out through a crevice in the ceiling. He set the wood on end, Indian fashion, and applied a match. Beside the fireplace was a little collection of cooking utensils. Stan produced a piece of bacon and sliced it. He shoved a tin of water near the flames to heat, then he uncovered four speckled mountain trout. Soon a savoury odour began to permeate the air of the cave. Dona sniffed disdainfully. She was not sure she would eat.

Stan Ball sat back on his heels and watched the trout sizzling in the pan with the bacon. When the water began to simmer and boil he pulled it back from the flames and sifted tea into it. After turning the trout several times he arose and pulled a wide slab of stone over beside the cot. Producing two tin plates, he laid out a knife, a fork and spoon, his entire stock of silver. Two tin cups were added to the table and a tin can of sugar.

The trout were done brown by this time and he dumped two of them on the plate before Dona. Three slices of crisp bacon were added. He shoved the plate toward her and reached for the tin of tea. "Humble but wholesome," he remarked. "I have no bread. It's too bulky to carry." He added this by way of apology.

Dona took up the fork which was her allotted piece of silver. She would be as good as he and as able to meet his plans. The food was good and she would eat it. That would deplete his store sooner.

The first mouthful convinced her that Stan Ball was an expert at frying trout. She realized, too, that she was very hungry. In silence they ate and drank. Stan sat close to her on the stone bed. The handle of his revolver was a scant 10 inches from her hand as she laid down the spoon, but she did not attempt to jerk the gun free. Dona knew the cat-like speed of the man she had to deal with. His gun hand would move like lightning.

Stan reached for her plate and gathered up the few dishes. He turned his back squarely upon her and filled a can of water for dish-washing. Dona sat still and watched him. She was not foolish enough to believe that this was her chance. She would wait for a better opening, one that was sure.

Stan washed the dishes and put them away carefully. Then he sat down on the slab of stone that had served as a table. With deliberate care he sifted a little tobacco into a cigarette paper and rolled a smoke.

Dona moved slightly. A picture fastened up on the bare stone wall caught her eye. It was a photograph of herself, taken when she was at finishing school. Her eyes flashed but she did not say anything. Ball saw that she was looking at the picture and a thin smile parted his lips.

"My most prized possession!" He spoke slowly and the smile faded from his lips.

"You take what you want, don't you, Mr. Ball?" There was a cutting edge to the girl's voice and a sarcastic note in it. "Even though it can do you no good."

"It has done me much good," Stan stated simply.

His answer angered her more than a bantering reply would have done. She sat very straight and her little chin came up stiffly.

"And these," Stan waved to a pile of magazines and several books, "are very helpful to a fellow who has to stay cooped up all day." Dona's eyes flickered ever so little as she noticed that he had helped himself to magazines and books from the shelves of the office building at Three Rivers. The books were all good literature and the magazines of the better class.

"You approve of my readings?" There was a light of amusement in his grey eyes.

"You probably haven't opened any of them," she answered coldly.

"But they make nice decorations," he insisted.

Dona shrugged her slender shoulders and refused to reply.

"You hate me and that is all right, but you are my guest and I want you to be comfortable and to be entertained." Ball cast an amused eye over the stiffly erect figure on the cot. "I would suggest that you make yourself easy."

"I am as easy as any girl could be with a man of your kind about," Dona snapped. "I would consider it a great favour if you would go outside where you could watch the entrance and leave me alone."

Stan nodded and got up. "Make yourself at home. I will take care of my lady outside." He bent low to keep from bumping his head on the ceiling of the cave and disappeared.

Dona sat for a long time without moving. She could hear her captor outside talking to the black mare. Cool air began to creep into the cave, indicating that evening was at hand. Dona stretched her legs and tried to see out into the clearing but a curve in the entryway made it impossible. She sat back and gave herself up to bitter contemplation of her fate.

She was a prisoner but that did not worry her. That she was in the power of Stan Ball, a killer, did not worry her either. What did make her uneasy was the thought of her father. She remembered with an angry twist of memory that Stan Ball had shot her father and that Ball was responsible for her present plight. From the first he had been the cause of all her trouble. She made a vow that she would exact the last drop of revenge against him when the chance came.

Stan emerged into the yellow light of the cave. He had taken care of his horse and was back to see how she was getting along.

"Time to turn in," he said shortly. "We'll have a heavy day tomorrow if things break right."

Dona met his eyes with a level gaze. "I happen to be sitting up to-night," she said flatly.

"I happen to be deciding these things for you!" he stated and began to untie the scarf that was knotted loosely about his throat.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

That over-powering mania known as "College spirit" takes many strange twists not listed in any college curriculum. Spirited undergraduates subject themselves to varying degrees of torture for their dear old Alma Mater in the hope that she will be victorious. Some get broken noses and dislocated knee caps on the football gridiron fighting for their college prestige. Others don rosters' caps and yell themselves hoarse in the rooting section in order to spur their gallant warriors to greater efforts. Still others bet their allowance of hard earned money, a medium which is usually slim on any campus. Those who haven't money to bet figure out many strange wagers that place comic election bets far in the background for their originality. One of these unusual wagers, as a means of displaying college spirit, is disclosed in Warner Bros. Vitaphone college picture, "Maybe It's Love" which is coming to the Queen's Theatre to-morrow. A rah-rah lad bets another student at the rival college that he will not shave until his Alma Mater emerges victorious from a big game encounter. As his school is always on a short end of the score board, his beard grows so long that his campus mates dub him "Whiskers." But he faithfully wears his beard until a big game, which gives his college chums endless opportunities for comic gags. John Bennett and James Hall have the romantic leads in "Maybe It's Love," while Joe E. Brown and Laura Lee play comedy characterizations as a "has-been" football star and a dainty co-ed. They are responsible for the big laughs of this comedy picture. Incidentally, this is the first screen production in which a genuine "all-American" team has played.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

SOME SAUCY CHAPEAUX

DRESSING WELL.

Short Cuts to Chic.

Details and accessories are even more important this season than last, especially in the case of the woman who must dress well on a limited income.

When the choice of one's autumn clothes has still to be made, it is possible to find a new detail here and there which, grafted on to a last year's suit, will bridge the gap admirably. There is the "odd jacket" suit which we can contrive from our existing wardrobes.

That "Odd" Jacket

If the jacket is in a bright colour, so much the better, although any good contrasting shade can be worn, and it should be trim and short, while the skirt must be tailored and in black, brown, or grey. The shoes, bag, and hat should match the skirt—or frock, since a tailored dress would be excellent for this purpose.

A last year's suit can be freshened up with a brightly coloured patterned scarf in one of the new thin, loosely woven woollens.

A wide, corded belt in a contrasting colour, such as can be easily made at home, might take the place of a leather belt on a woollen frock, and wide cuffs to match would look very attractive. The new double waistline—achieved by two narrow belts which are joined at the back, but are at least two inches apart in front—would give an up-to-date look to a frock.

A broche satin blouse cut on the plainest lines, is an attractive addition to the autumn wardrobe. Worn with a cloth suit, discreetly fur trimmed, it makes a good afternoon or even early evening outfit.

Gauntlet gloves this autumn are to be more important than ever. A cuff matching the frock is a new fashion note and, of course, there will be velvet for afternoon and evening wear.

TENNIS BELTS.

Belts for wear with tennis frocks this year can be obtained in a variety of colours, shapes, and designs, but the most popular are of white material decorated with narrow bands of colour. Black, blue, and green lines decorate one narrow belt, while another has alternate blue squares placed at each side.

The newest fashion forecast is the brown and white kid shoe to be worn with white costumes which have a touch which have a touch of brown. The shoe illustrated is a brown kid sandal with trim on the vamp and a strap of white kid.

FRILLED GLOVES.

Some of the newest gloves for wear with frilly afternoon frocks, are fashioned with a graceful frill at one side, which looks most attractive. The gloves are kid, and a navy blue pair is designed with a frill of pale blue, edged with white, while a bottle-green pair has a plain white frill at the side.

HOW I KEEP SLIM.

By Margot Grahame

My menus are definitely planned with the intention of keeping down my weight. I have only one real meal a day, and that I take at lunch time.

For breakfast I have orange juice and sometimes not even that, but merely a glass of water and a cigarette. At midday I have a steak, mixed grill, or some such really substantial meat dish, without potatoes but with plenty of green vegetable. Gravy and fat are excluded always. I follow this with black coffee, and very occasionally with cheese.

Lemon juice for "tea" usually completes my day's meals, unless I am working very late at the studio, when I take an egg at dinner time. I always drink plenty of black coffee.

Now and again I decide to reduce my weight, instead of merely keeping it as it is. I have tried the cutlet and pineapple diet, and found that quite useful. But by far the best method that I have discovered is to take a course of wax baths. Each one reduces my weight by two pounds, and I usually take a course of ten.

My work at the studio leaves me no energy for exercise, so to make up for this deficiency I have massage three times a week.

At one time I wore rubber

TO-DAY'S RECIPE.

A Jelly "Cream."

Take a packet jelly and melt slowly in a damp saucepan. Then add a little less than a pint of cold milk and water, stirring well. When turned out into a mould and set, this mixture will have a jelly top and a cream base.

Pineapple jellies are particularly good done this way and as a variant can be made with cream and water, or unsweetened condensed milk and water.

For another variation, take half a pint of pineapple juice from a tin, boil it well, allow to cool and then use with nearly half a pint of cold milk to make the jelly. Decorate with pineapple.

corsets, but now I have adopted a style made of material and fitted with bones. I consider that correctness is of the utmost importance to figure beauty for any woman.

AN EDUCATIONAL MEANS TEST

Considerable controversy has arisen at Home in regard to a new policy enunciated by the Board of Education in regard to fees for secondary schools. Based on considerations of economy, the idea at the back of the Government's plans is that the system of admitting pupils free to secondary schools, without any regard to the capacity of the parents to pay, is wasteful of public funds, and, in fact, runs counter to the principle that where educational awards are made by public or quasi-public bodies, the amount of any assistance given should vary according to the circumstances of the successful candidates. At present, a proportion, and sometimes the whole, of the places in a school are filled by competitive examination, the successful candidates at which are admitted free. Under the new regulations, fees will be charged in all schools, and, while special places will continue to be filled by open competition, the parents of successful pupils will be expected to pay the school fee, except where their circumstances justify its remission, either wholly or in part. The outcome will be that the Government will secure additional funds, since half of the increased revenue will go to the exchequer, as Government grants are based on net expenditure.

It is being contended that by its new plans the Government is now reversing a policy which has prevailed for the past three decades.
In this connexion, it is well to remember that before the nation accepted the responsibility of providing higher education for the mass of the people, there was very little higher education at all in many parts of the country. With the advent of the County Education Authorities, however, a chain of new secondary schools came into being, opening up the opportunity of better education to thousands of children who would otherwise have gone without it.

They were mostly children from the elementary schools, whose parents could not afford to pay anything like the cost of the education provided. With the introduction of scholarships for free places, the doors were thrown much wider open, and the records of the schools as well as the careers of their pupils demonstrated the wisdom of this beneficent expenditure of public money. All this tendency is now reversed. Children in future, apparently, are not to be the judged according to whether they have enough brains and character to justify the community in educating them so that they may serve it better in the future, but they are to be regarded solely from the standpoint of how much their parents can afford to pay for their education. As one of the most noted educationists in England has remarked, the new plan reflects an attitude that education is a luxury.

Apart from the principles involved, considerable difficulty will assuredly be found in working on this system of capacity to pay.
The differentiation in fees will be extremely hard to work, requiring, as it will, an inquisition into the circumstances of families—a new form of the Means Test with which we have become so familiar in the matter of the unemployed problem.
Indeed, looked at from almost every standpoint, the whole plan would appear to be a retrograde step. It would seem, in fact, that those responsible for the change have not looked at the matter from the point of view of the nation, to which, in this modern world,
the best-educated population it can have is its most important asset. One of two things, or possibly both, is likely to happen.
Either the number of children who pass through the secondary schools will be reduced, or their personnel will materially alter, since their parents' income, and not their own capacity, will be the criterion on which their future is settled.

The Fate of the World.

Mr. Wells is a controversialist of genius. He writes, too, with the passion of an evangelist who believes that he has discovered the answer to the question, "What must we do to be saved?" He has now produced a new book, in which, as in many earlier ones, argument and dogmatic fervour are brilliantly combined in order to persuade us that, unless we can bring about world-federation, we must inevitably plunge into world-catastrophe. "After Democracy," apart from two chapters, consists of reprints of papers and addresses; and the moral that runs through the greater part of it is that permanent peace can never be established till the nations have given up their sovereign independence and put their armed forces under the control of a World State. "Peace and national independence," declares
Mr. Wells, "are incompatible—and our world is refusing to see it." He disbelieves profoundly in internationalism, which recognises the existence of independent nations, and declares for cosmopolitanism, which involves the abolition of patriotism. In his address to the Liberal Summer School—an address which created a minor sensation owing to a reference to the King—he attempted to persuade Liberals to organise on new lines, for the achievement of "human liberation and the attainment of the world state." He has now supplemented that address with a footnote in which he expands his suggestion for creating what he then called "a Liberal Fascist." The new organisation, he suggests, should begin with the formation of local groups, "each planned primarily as a society for self-education, research and propaganda"— education which would train a body of the young for the responsibilities of social, financial and political control. There should, he says, be a common vision of the world, a common conception of history and morals and political conditions, and a clear and definite idea of the common objective of the movement. At any cost in restraint upon immediate growth, this mental common-stock must be attained. The ideas, the knowledge, must be insisted upon. There must be some board or committee in relation to each group, competent to judge the qualification of candidates for full membership, and an associate of the movement should not be admitted to participation in its proceedings and work until that much proficiency is assured. If the reader finds himself unable to agree with Mr. Wells' solutions, there can scarcely be two opinions as to the truth of his final warning: "Unexampled prosperity and happiness are within the reach of our race; and it staggers on the edge of what may be irrecoverable disaster. Every year every month of indecision increases the inevitability of that disaster."

"Inventor at Nine" reads a headline in a local newspaper. Almost any Hongkong husband who arrives home at that hour would qualify for the title.

It's a wonder that some of those reference to the United Kingdom!

We noticed a well-known shroff

Can this be riot?

"Once upon a time a great powerful Government ruled wisely in Hongkong. For many years the people had gone without water, their City Hall was ridiculed by visitors, and red tape and officialdom held away. So the new Government built the Shing Mun Dam for the people, tore down the City Hall, and swept secrecy and autocracy away," said Edward Kelly. "Say, pop," said young

Ideal Light Repasts

'OVALTINE' rusks, because of their delicious flavour, digestibility and very high nutritive value, may be taken with advantage at any time. With cheese, butter or potted meat they comprise an ideal light repast. They are so crunchy and crisp.

Baked to the right degree of hardness, these Rusks contain a proportion of 'Ovaltine' which gives them a delicious flavour as well as making them easy to digest and highly nourishing. They are made from unbleached, unadulterated wheat flour, from which none of the nutritive properties have been removed by the process of grinding, and have been demonstrated to be the best of all rusks.

That is why you should insist on 'Ovaltine' Rusks. The youngsters like them, too!

MOTOR NOTES AND NEWS.

Driving Over the Rockies.

An English motorist, who has just completed an eighteen months' tour through the United States and Canada, during which he covered 50,000 miles, found that crossing North America by road is still an adventure.

At times he had to drive when the temperature was 30 degrees below zero, and at others to cross deserts at top speed when the thermometer registered 110 degrees in the shade.

In Montana and Wyoming he motored all day at altitudes twice that of the highest peak in England; while on several occasions he crossed the Canadian and American Rockies at between 10,000 and 13,000 feet above sea level, over roads so bad that, according to him, they can only be duplicated in Europe by Greece and Turkey.

Prize Winning Cars

One of the most successful of the many striking cars that took part in the Concours d'Elegance recently held at Eastbourne was the Humber Pullman entered by Mr. W. E. Rootes. This had a sports cabriolet de ville body by Thrupp and Maberley, incorporating a number of features of special interest, such as a ventilated trunk for the transport of freshly-shot game.

This car was entered in three classes, i.e., for cars costing between £700 and £1,000, for the most distinctive car over £500 in value, and for the most distinctive car with special coachwork, and was placed first in each case.

The class for closed cars costing between £150 and £250 was won by a Hillman Minx with a body known as the "Burlington Coupe." This smart little car, with accommodation for four persons, has a deep-headed body with Tickford winding head, the forward part of which is made in the manner of a "de ville" extension.

The tail of the body is gracefully outswapt, and the rear wings are flared to match.

A "De Luxe" Policy

A number of important features are to be noted in the 1933 programme of the Triumph Company. Prices are reduced all round, although the value of the equipment has been greatly increased. All models are now "de luxe" and the new cars are completely equipped with every useful motoring aid, so that purchasers have no extras to pay for.

The distinction of being the first British firm to standardise a central jacking system goes to the credit of the Triumph people; and two other interesting points in the 1933 programme are worthy of note.

In the first place the Super Seven will in future be known as the Super Eight, and in the second the Southern Cross sports model, which embodies the Super Nine chassis has been increased in power to 10 h.p. by raising the engine capacity.

ALL-NIGHT CAR TRIAL.

The all-night car test recently organised by the Cape Province Motor-Cycle and Car Club for the "London Cup" proved a big attraction for light and heavy cars.

The premier award was won by G. Retief who piloted a Triumph sports car over the 300 miles course without the loss of a single mark, despite six open and four secret controls.

"For every instance you see of recklessness on the part of a motorist you may count half a dozen examples of jaywalking on the part of pedestrians." Few will disagree with this comment from a London paper.

FORD CAR FALLS THIRTY FEET.

The above picture shows a Ford car after it had been accidentally back down the 46 steps shown above. After falling a distance of approximately 30' the car went away under its own power. No material damage was done to either passengers or car. The chauffeur was fined $10.—for using a passage not open to vehicular traffic!

WHITHER SPEED LEADS?

The Higher the Speed, The Lower the Safety Factor.

Every now and then, at the numerous airports throughout the country (U.S.A.), we hear youngsters in the flying game naming 1,500 to 2,000 m.p.h. as the speed of aeroplanes some years hence.

These same youngsters and a lot of others who should have more sense, use the time-worn phrase, "the only excuse for aviation is its speed," to back up their arguments. In the language of some famous poet, "that's a lot of baloney." Commercial aviation will never carry passengers at more than 250 miles per hour and you can dunk your pretzel in that, wrote the late Charles W. Purcell, shortly before his death.

Now, let's take the different angles of the case and work them out. First, we have the little proposition of upkeep. We'll say just for the sake of argument that a fair speed for commercial ships is 150 m.p.h. From actual costs of upkeep on the equipment of a certain line operating on the Pacific Coast, we find that for each 25 m.p.h. of speed added to their schedule, they increased their upkeep 30 per cent.

Now, some of you are going to ask me why, and here's the answer. Motors go to pieces faster. Wing covering deteriorates faster and tyres wear much quicker. Add to this, the ravage caused by vibration (and you have plenty of this at high speed) and you can easily see how large a pocketbook it would take to pay off.

Vibration in an aeroplane causes more trouble than any other known factor. Its actions are never visible to the eye, or nearly never, but the results are quite visible in the way of crackups. This cause of the flying game causes metal fatigue and excessive wood deterioration.

Metal fatigue is the baby that causes steel props to separate themselves into numerous pieces while the ship is in the air.

Retaining Health While Flying Fast

Now, we'll drop the upkeep business and look at another side of the question—passengers. The passenger is the party that will have to pay for the advancement of aviation, but—can they fly him at great speeds and still have the passenger retain his health. Doctors will tell you "no." They claim, and this is backed up by physical examinations during the World War, that only two out of each 10 people can stand a speed greater than 300 m.p.h.

Would it be good business to land one of these fast ships on an airport with a dead passenger? Nay, my child, and I furthermore have many doubts as to the passengers' insurance. Insurance companies still have one eye closed so far as aviation is concerned and when a commercial line starts high speed stuff, both their optics will close and close tight.

Speed flyers will tell you that they have certain things to do on fast turns. Some of them scream at the top of their voices. Others stretch the muscles of the body. Each and everyone of them have some little thing to do to overcome "blanking-out" but the blanking-out process takes place just the same—sometimes.

When you hear of a fast flyer crumpling-up you can nine times out of ten, charge his death to this cause. With flying experts being washed out by these shortcomings of the human body, what chance do you think a passenger would have? I'll answer it for you. Just about as much chance as the cat with the fallow legs had of catching that asbestos rat in Hades.

Now, for the old time-worn argument about speed being the only thing that aviation has to offer. This is true in a certain sense, but it does not go far enough. Did you ever see a train travel as fast as an aeroplane? No? Well what else can travel 250 m.p.h. with the safety of an aeroplane? Nothing. Right you are—nothing and lots of it.

Then it seems that for the present we have attained a high enough rate of speed for the present factor of safety of our planes. Aeroplane manufacturers and aero engineers will have to go to work and increase this factor of safety of our ships before they add more speed. The mere fact that human beings can go into the air and fly at a greater speed than a bird is plenty excuse for the grand old game—aviation. Laugh that off. If 250 m.p.h. is not fast enough to give aviation its place in the sun, then we may as well go back to bicycles.

When this cry for speed and more speed has finally driven plane builders to create 20 passengers jobs that will make extremely high speeds, then and only then will they realize that their efforts have been just wasted time. They may not realize it then—not until they bring in several stiff passengers and become tangled up in several million dollars worth of lawsuits.

This old body of ours was just made to travel so fast and so fast and when we park it in a ship that is built to travel, 350, 400 or 450 m.p.h., we slap Lady Luck square on the nose. Even at 200 m.p.h. on our present ships, a wise pilot cuts the gun before touching a control. A sharp turn at this rate of speed might cause him serious trouble. Ninety-nine times out of a 100 his body is practically perfect, but—and there always remains that "but."

When Mr. or Mrs. Passenger gets a taste of this speed, they will probably go back to railroads and aviation will have to go through another siege of starvation to wean the passenger back to the air. Uncle Sam used his head when he stayed out of those speed races. A pilot is an asset to the country, so why kill them off?

These "readers of the future" who speak of 1,500 to 2,000 m.p.h. in the stratosphere have not taken into consideration several factors that will result. Two thousand miles an hour in the stratosphere? Yes, when cows wear pants! Just because some cloud cleaver gets that high in a balloon is no reason why the rest of us have to go up there and travel that fast.

Cream Puffs Fine Material for Aeroplane Wings

Would some kind soul tell me what they are going to build this super-plane of and who's going to build it? They could use a cream puff for wings just about as well as they could any of our present plane-building material. It's sold up in the stratosphere—at least that's what they tell me—but passengers travelling 2,000 m.p.h. would be very much put out by the heat when landing. When you have this much speed and then descent to dense air you have enough heat to cook a passenger to a nice shade of brown. Why? Simple. When you have surface on a ship you have friction, when you add speed you have heat—the more speed the more heat.

Instead of playing around with this speed stuff, our engineers should try to give us a ship, with a twenty mile landing speed, a 200 m.p.h. cruising speed and about 1,500 pounds of pay load on a single engine. That's what a lot of us would call real progress. This ship can be and will be built some day.

When it is finally built we will end deaths in the flying game. This kind of a ship could be landed on a city street without killing one of the occupants. It could be landed in any mountainous country in the same way.

Aviation needs factors of safety much more than speed. It needs ship and engine improvements and lots of them. It needs some way of making airports visible through several thousand feet of fog. It needs a good mechanical device to fly a ship blind.

G$3,000,000 Order for England.

The first direct shipment to England of Ford V-8 cylinder cars manufactured by the Ford Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd., was recently sent from the company's East Windsor docks via S.S. Tractor, a specially-fitted garage ship.

The shipment comprised 220 cars on wheels, the models being those which are not now being produced by the Ford Motor Co., Ltd., of England. The vessel sailed from East Windsor Canada, for the docks of the English Ford company at Dagenham, Enfield, via the St. Lawrence waterway.

The consignment was part of the $3,000,000 order for Ford V-8 cars and V-8 motors obtained from the English Ford company. The original order was for 1,800 V-8 cars on wheels and between 18,000 and 20,000 V-8 engines during a 12-months' period.

It is expected that the first shipment direct from East Windsor will be followed by similar shipments each month until the close of the navigation season on the inland waterway.

In commenting upon the matter, Mr. W. R. Campbell, president of the Ford Motor Co. of Canada, characterized the direct shipment of Ford cars of Canadian manufacture from East Windsor to England for distribution in the United Kingdom, continental Europe and some parts of northern Africa and near Asia as the "first concrete evidence of the mutual exchange of trade possible between countries within the British Empire."

Baby Fords

As such, the initial shipment was considered indicative of the strengthening of commercial ties of the mother country and the Dominions resulting in the deliberations at the Imperial Economic conference at Ottawa.

In exchange, the Canadian Ford company is to take for distribution in its overseas territories in Australia, India, Malaya, New Zealand, South Africa and elsewhere some 3,600 8 h.p. Ford cars manufactured by the English company at Dagenham, England. The entire transaction will total some $5,000,000, the order for English cars totalling approximately $2,000,000.

First shipments of 8 h.p. baby Fords manufactured at Dagenham, England, are already on their way to the Ford Assembly plant in Singapore.

"Representing as it does an entirely new source of trade, this agreement between two British Empire Ford companies attempts to point the way for similar mutual exchange of trade among countries within the Empire," said Mr. Campbell.

"The first direct shipments are indicative of what may be accomplished by a sincere effort to strengthen the commercial ties between these countries so as to make the commonwealth of nations virtually self-sustaining and independent."

Mr. Campbell also pointed out that the direct shipment of products from Canada to England is prophetic of the far greater movement of commodities from the Dominion, which will be possible when the St. Lawrence waterway becomes a reality.

A Second Shipment

Another shipment of 400 Ford V-8 cars on wheels in now en route from Montreal, Canada, to Scandinavian territories of the English Ford company. Shipments of Ford V-8 engines and parts peculiar to the Ford V-8 car have also gone forward. These are to be assembled into Ford chassis manufactured at the new $30,000,000 English Ford factory at Dagenham, England.

During his two week's stay in England, Mr. Campbell lunched with the Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, P. C. Secretary of State for the Dominions.

"The British people, from their atmosphere and their mental attitude, show no indication that they recognise that a world depression is in progress," Mr. Campbell said.

"Unemployment, at least, has not recently become worse. The people are combating existing conditions with the utmost energy and courage, as well as optimism. They have gone through periods like this page of history before and have come through. It is pretty certain that they will do so again."

"The British people were confident that out of the Ottawa Conference would come benefits for all within the Empire, Dominions as well as Great Britain herself."

In 1931 the average number of private car licences in Great Britain was 921,111, divided as follows:—Annual, 802,792; part yearly, 49,980, and quarterly, 38,330.

400,000 Miles for A Single Aeroplane.

The veteran Graf Zeppelin has just completed her 250th flight with a voyage around the borders of Switzerland, thereby setting a record that will not soon be duplicated by a dirigible.

Her journeyings have taken her through 251,000 air miles in 4,200 hours of flying and she has transported 16,000 persons, 13 tons of mail and 83 tons of air freight.

Aeroplane are hanging up more enviable records for long service. Lieut. Lefolnivez, French owner of a 100-horsepower Gypsy Moth two-seater biplane, landed the other day at Stage Lane airfield in England. He had brought his machine and engine for overhaul by the makers after flying the plane for 610 hours—about 50,000 miles—without repairing nor replacing a part and without giving the engine even a "top" overhaul. In the course of this flying the owner had made 3,800 landings.

A short time ago, a propeller from the centre engine of the City of Columbus, flagship of the Transcontinental Air Transport line, was presented to Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad. They inaugurated the airrail service in 1929 and later merged with the Western Air Express. The propeller had 2,500 hours in the air and travelled 277,281 miles.

A Ford tri-motor, 4-AT, No. 3, has just completed 400,000 miles of air travel for the aeroplane division of the Ford Motor company. It was placed in operation on the company's freight ser-

Sweeping Success of British Riders.

The sweeping successes of British competitors in the recent International Alpine Trial have made a profound impression on the Continent and have acted as a splendid advertisement for British cars generally.

Matched against some of the most famous Continental makes in what is universally admitted to be one of the most strenuous reliability trials in the world they secured the team and individual prizes in every class for which they were entered.

The route started at Munich and led through the Tyrol, the Dolomites, and the Swiss and French Alps, including several famous Alpine passes, before finally stopping at San Hemo.

The two Singer light cars which participated both did remarkably well, and it is worth noting that they were the cheapest, as well as the smallest, of the British cars that were entered.

Of these two Nines, one procured a clean sheet without any penalty marks and thus obtained a Glacier Cup, while the second car, driven by Mrs. Dinsdale was the only car to be driven throughout including the two passes, by a woman driver, for which she received a special award.

'DIRT AND SQUALOR'

The Duke of Rutland, speaking at the opening of a new residential hall of Loughborough College, Leicestershire, said he thought it would be a good idea if the governing body of Eton College would go to Loughborough to look at the new hall. They might then, he said, get some more up-to-date ideas and carry out a more forward policy. The governing body of Eton College thought they were still living in the mediaeval period.

He was struck by the difference in coming to the new Loughborough College Hall, and the recent occasion on which he had taken his boy down to Eton for the first time.

He was horrified at the dirt and squalor of a particular house and the rooms the boys were expected to live in.

Dr. Cyril Allington, Eton's headmaster, declined to make any comment when approached on the matter.

AMY ARRIVES

BEATS HUSBAND'S RECORD TO THE CAPE

Capetown, Nov. 18. Despite her forced landing at Benguela, Amy Mollison has succeeded in establishing new figures for the England-Capetown flight. She arrived here to-day, beating her previous record, registered by her husband J. A. Mollison, by 10 1/2 hours.

Mrs. Mollison left Lympne at 6.30 a.m. on Monday, and flew via West Africa without a mishap until she was forced down at Benguela, Portuguese East Africa, yesterday, when within 1,700 miles of the Cape.

The defect in the oil pressure responsible for the forced landing, was evidently repaired expeditiously and could not have entailed much delay, although she was several hours ahead of her husband's record on arrival at Benguela.

Enthusiastic Crowd.

Amy landed skillfully in the teeth of a head wind amidst a cacophony from motor hooters and the hysterical cheers of thousands of spectators, many of whom had waited throughout the night. The police had great difficulty in handling the admiring crowd.

Amy, at first, was vivacious, but heavy-eyed as a result of the practically sleepless period since her departure but then momentarily collapsed and buried her head in her arms. She recovered and was bundled into a motorcar and taken to a secret address to ensure a maximum rest.—Reuter.

London, Nov. 18. ## POLICE BOMBED

GRENADE THROWN BY SHANGHAI STRIKERS

Shanghai, Nov. 18. A strike on the Chinese tramways inside the Chinese City broke out to-day as a result of a demand for higher wages. For the whole day the tramway offices were surrounded by strikers and all tram service was suspended.

Late this afternoon, when the police arrived to maintain order, a hand grenade of unknown origin was thrown down from a group of strikers at the police, resulting in one officer, three police and 13 strikers being injured.

Revolver shots were also heard in the disorder prevailing at the tramway company. The manager, Mr. Lu Po-hung, was unable to leave the premises owing to the threatening attitude of the strikers. Efforts at mediation by the Chinese authorities failed, the strikers refusing to disperse unless their demands were accepted by the manager. Late to-night the strikers were still surrounding the company's offices.—Reuter's Special.

GENERAL TENG SI-HAO INTERVENES

Nanking, Nov. 18. Despite remonstrations from Nanking, the war in Szechuan has been going on uninterrupted for almost two months. Latest despatches from the Province report Liu Hsiang's capture of Tze-chung, on the Taokiang River, midway between Chengtung and Luchu. Liu Wen-hu is holding the latter city which is reported to be in danger.

Chengtu is in the throes of guerrilla warfare between Liu Wen-hu and Tien Sung-yao. General Teng Si-hao is reported to have intervened, threatening action against the party which launches further attacks. It is hoped that the intervention will shortly restore peace in the capital city.—Reuter.

Second Football Trial A Disappointment

GASH AND STOKES OUTSTANDING

"The 'Stripes,' captained by Hurry defeated the 'Whites,' skippered by Gash, last Sunday afternoon at the Canidrome before a large crowd of about 12,000 spectators, in the second Interport trial match by three goals to two. It was an interesting match, but little rivalry was seen, as the players inclined to display individualism more than combination. The desire to win appeared to be lacking.

The Stripes were lucky to emerge on the long end of the score, as two of their points came as a result of penalty kicks, which were well taken by K. C. Chen of the Tung Hwa Club. The Whites opened scoring in the 30th minute when Aldague, who had joined in the game for about five minutes, drove in a fine shot at a difficult angle on the left flank. Then, in the last few minutes of the initial period, Duffy was penalized for handling in the cleared area and K. C. Chen equalized the count, though both the "hands" and the goal were questionable.

STRIPES FORGE AHEAD.

The Stripes forged ahead in the second half through Gonsalves who beat Y. Y. Chow with a feeble shot. Then Lawton of the Whites tied the score again after a pretty solo effort. Towards the termination, the Whites were again punished for some foul which was rather undiscernable from the stands and K. C. Chen converted the 12 yard kick into the winning point. "Star" Gash, several times captain of the Shanghai Interport team, was the outstanding player in the defence line. He covered the field in a masterly manner as he did in the past. Gash demonstrated his ability to distribute the play, feed his men when they were unguarded and play with brain as well as sinews. There was really nothing to choose between the two goals, David being good in heading away the ball when there was no opportunity for him to kick the leather. Both of them had about equal chances to show their prowess and they did as they were expected. It will be a hard task for the selection committee to make their choice.

STOKES IMPRESSES.

Among the full backs, Stokes stood head and shoulders above the others, tackling and clearing the shots in fine style. His partner, Lee, usually was behind Stokes and he wandered off several dangerous attacks. Marcel and Voong were a reliable pair of backs though they were not as conspicuous as Stokes. Nevertheless, they combined well.

The intermediate lines of both sides were much improved and Gash was certainly the pick of the halves. Westwood and Duffy on Gash's side were good, as were Madar and Hurry, but Zee failed on many occasions to pass to his own men. The Police half line proved to have an edge over the other in yesterday's exhibition, and the "Bobbies" will probably be selected for the annual match against Hongkong.

Lawton led well, but he was a bit of a colour when compared with the showing he gave in the first trial. "Darky" Chen was fast but he appeared to be out of position at all times. Jack, Favacho and Aldague did not give a very impressive exhibition.

KEATS INJURED.

Wilkinson swung across several fine centres which were not utilized. K. C. Chen played better in the second half and was clever in his footwork. Gonsalves was totally out of the picture excepting he scored an easy goal. Keats was the best winger of the day but unfortunately he was injured towards the interval, and it is feared that Shanghai will lose a valuable outside right. Bolton went in for Keats in the second period and he was on the slow side.

The teams were as follows:
Stripes—David, Y. Y. Voong, Marcel, Madar, Y. H. Zee, Hurry, Keats (Bolton), C. Chen, Tumburini, Gonsalves and Wilkinson.
Whites—Y. Y. Chow, Stokes, N. Lee, Westwood, Gash, Duffy, Favacho, Jack, Lawton, "Darky" Chen and Aldague.

FIGHT FOR RUNS. M.C.C. in Bad Position in Melbourne.

SUTCLIFFE CAUTIOUS.

Melbourne, Nov. 18.
The M.C.C. opened their four-day match against an Australian XI before a crowd of 6,000 to-day, beautiful cricket weather prevailing. The Australians lost the toss and R.E.S. Wyatt and Sutcliffe opened for the M.C.C. on a good wicket. Runs came very slowly, the Australian attack being good. They met with their first success shortly before the lunch interval when R.E.S. Wyatt succumbed. He had scored twenty-nine runs.

AFTERNOON'S PLAY.
At lunch the score was 50 runs for one wicket. In the afternoon the crowd increased to 23,000. The M.C.C. carried their total to 238 runs for the loss of eight wickets when stumps were drawn. Sutcliffe contributed 87 in an unentertaining innings which lasted 234 minutes, and which included three fours. M. Loyland was dismissed when he had scored 38.—Reuter.

MAMAK HOCKEY.

H.M.S. Tamar Hold
Medway to Draw.

TWO FRIENDLY GAMES.

H.M.S. Tamar played a good game to hold the strong H.M.S. Medway XI to a draw of one goal each in the Mamak hockey tournament at King's Park yesterday afternoon. It was an even game, the Medway having slightly the better of the exchanges, but stout defence by the Tamar backs and halves kept the eager Medway forwards in check.

The last few minutes of the game saw some exciting play, both teams trying hard for the deciding goal, but both defences held out.

FRIENDLY MATCHES.

Playing in semi-darkness towards the end, the Club de Recreio played a drawn game with the Hongkong Hockey Club "A" team at King's Park yesterday. C. Pereira put the Portuguese team ahead in the first half, which ended with them holding the lead of one nil.

The Hockey Club players had more of the play in the second half, and shortly after the resumption, they equalized. It was difficult to see the ball towards the end of the game, and the score of 1-1 was a fair reflection of the run of the match.

ST. ANDREW'S CLUB BEATEN.
In a friendly hockey match on the Caroline Hill ground yesterday afternoon the R.A.S.C. and St. Andrew's Club both fielded weak teams, the match resulting in a narrow victory for the military players by two goals to one.

The Saints opened the scoring, but the teams changed over on tactical terms, and in the second half the soldiers put on another goal to give them victory.

Sydney, Nov. 18.
The visiting American tennis stars were again triumphant to-day when they entered the finals of the New South Wales doubles championship. Results of the semi-finals were:

Allison and Van Ryn (U.S.A.) beat Crawford and Sproule (N.S.W.) 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.—Reuter.

Champion for 38 Years

FENCER'S BRILLIANT "COME-BACK"

Major Stenson Cooke, the living spirit of the Automobile Association, scored a series of remarkable victories at the London Fencing Club recently, to win 1934 Desborough's John Baptiste Mimiague Foil Challenge Trophy. He won his first foil competition 38 years ago. He was amateur champion of Great Britain in 1923, was one of the British team at the Olympic Games in 1912, and won the Officer's Sabres at the Royal Tournament in 1897 and the Officer's Foils in 1902. For the last eight years he has taken no part in championship or competition events. His success, after so long a retirement, is more noteworthy by the fact that he gave away 30 years to the oldest of his opponents in the final pool. Mimiague was Maitre d'Arms to the London Fencing Club from 1919 to his death in 1923. Major Stenson Cooke was his friend and pupil for over 20 years, and it is a happy event that places his name on the trophy that commemorates his tutor's memory.

YESTERDAY'S RUGBY

South Wales Borderers Win
Another Game.

The South Wales Borderers added further to their laurels as a rugby combination yesterday when they won another match, beating a combined team from H.M.S. Kent and H.M.S. Suffolk by eleven points to nil. The soldiers held the advantage throughout and were always on the offensive. Time after time their forwards were on the verge of scoring, and they touched down on three occasions, but two tries went unconverted.

SIGNIFICANT!

IN his opening lecture to students of the class in advertising at Henliff-Watt College, Mr. R. McKean, referred to a famous merchant who had realized that the number of buyers he could reach by the personal advertisement of his staff was strictly limited. Trying to get a large number of new customers by means of the Press, he was disappointed. He was then advised by Press Advertising, especially for new customers, as he found that after all, Press Advertising was the quickest and cheapest way to secure a great many new customers.

There are dozens of advertising schemes, but only Press Advertising takes the message into the home every day. AND it is well to remember that Press Advertising does assist the customer. The newspaper is a business directory read every day—because it changes every day!

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.
This is a condition (or disease) to which many names are given but few really understand. It is simply weakness—a break down as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its cause (they are almost countless), its symptoms are such the same: the more prominent being sleeplessness, loss of vitality or weariness, depression of spirit and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is essential to all such cases is increased vitality—vigor, vital strength and energy to throw off those morbid feelings, and as night succeeds the day this may be more certainly secured by a course of THERAPION No. 3.

THERAPION No. 3
This is a combination of the most powerful and most valuable ingredients known to science, and it is difficult to imagine a disease or derangement whose main feature is weakness, that will not be speedily and permanently overcome by this restorative essence, which is destined to ease into oblivion everything that has preceded it. This is the wide-spread scourge of humanity, which has been the cause of so much suffering. Dr. L. C. Casco, Haverhill, N.H., U.S.A., writes:

EXPORTS LOWER THAN EVER

LOSSES IN THE IRISH WAR

British exports, shrinking month by month, last September reached the lowest total recorded for many years.

Their value was $20,228,665, a reduction of $2,328,120 on the already low figures for August, and a decline of $3,617,391 on the previous September.

The figures are given in the Board of Trade returns.

September imports were $54,266,662, an increase of $958,838 on August, but a decrease of $14,027,347 on September, 1931.

The export decline of last month as compared with the previous September is due mainly to a reduction of $2,472,339 in articles wholly or mainly manufactured.

The main decreases were:

Machinery ..... $566,001
Apparel ..... 429,085
Vehicles, including locomotives, ships and aircraft ..... 969,021
Iron and steel and manufactures thereof ..... 239,422

COTTON ADVANCE.

Cotton is again one of the few exceptions, the export of cotton yarns and manufactures having advanced by $660,103.

Comparing September imports with those of the previous September there was a decline of $3,011,339 in food, drink and tobacco, and of $10,479,282 in articles wholly or mainly manufactured.

The decrease in the export of coal was $604,902.

The trade figures for the nine months of this year were:

Imports ..... $20,216,226
Decline on 1931 (nine months) ..... 101,131,802
Exports ..... 271,107,476
Decline on 1931 (nine months) ..... 21,283,125

The value of re-exports in September was $2,901,763, a decrease on the previous September of $859,324, while for the first three-quarters of the year they aggregated $39,028,120, a reduction of $9,227,300 on the comparative period of last year.

HEAVY IRISH LOSSES.

The effect of the British Government's 20 per cent. duty on certain Free State exports is plainly seen in the returns. The principal variations were:

British exports have also suffered from the imposition of duties

CHRISTMAS ANNUAL PUBLISHED.

EXCELLENT EFFORT BY THE HONGKONG Y.M.C.A.

Covering the whole of the Association's activities, and including specially contributed articles on various phases of Hongkong life together with numbers of illustrations, the European Y. M. C. A. Christmas Annual which has just been published is a splendid little compilation.

It is issued under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Literary and Debating Society, with Mr. J. H. Hunt as editor. Its big attraction lies in the fact that the whole of the contents have been contributed by members of the Association.

An appropriate foreword by the President, Sir Henry Pollock, is succeeded by articles on the Literary and Debating Society, Y. M. C. A. sports, the Association's hockey and tennis clubs, swimming, the Servicemen's section, the maritime section and the women's section.

Special contributions include "Hongkong," by M. F. Key, "A Newcomer's Impressions" by J. R. Luke, "Journalism in Hongkong" by H. Brokenshire, "Sport in Hongkong" by S. A. Gray, "The Church in Hongkong" by Dean Swann, and an amusing skit on Bridge by a well-known local humorist.

The aim of the magazine is to provide the Home folks with some idea of the Y.M.C.A. in Hongkong and of Hongkong itself, and it entirely succeeds in this object, being both informative and entertaining in its articles.

Photographs of the hockey and swimming teams and the literary and debating committee, together with black and white sketches by various members add attraction to this excellent little booklet which is now on sale at the Y.M.C.A. and Messrs. Kelly and Walsh, at $1 a copy.

EMBEZZLEMENT ALLEGATION

EX-EMPLOYEE OF THOMAS
COOK AND SON

At the Central Magistracy yesterday, Mr. Wynne Jones commenced the hearing of an action brought against Lo Kau, formerly in the employ of Thomas Cook and Son, Ltd., who is charged with fraudulently embezzling $13,253.97.

Mr. F. H. Loseby appeared for the prosecution, and the defendant was represented by Mr. H. C. Lee. Sergt. Byron had charge of the Police case.

Mr. Loseby asked the Magistrate to treat the case as one for committal. Mr. Wynne Jones reserved decision on this point until the conclusion of the opening address.

Three charges were put forward by Mr. Loseby, who said he would press only one. Which one, depended on whether the case was tried in summary jurisdiction or sent to the Sessions.

Referring to the third charge, Mr. Loseby said the defendant had charge of the cash belonging to the tourist department. He was given instructions to pay $712.80 to the Hongkong Hotel Garage, and although he entered it as paid, he put the money in his own pocket.

Mr. Loseby explained that the tourist and banking sections of Thomas Cook and Son, Ltd., were combined in Hongkong, being under the one management, with the same staff and same banking account. The actual cash of both sections was under the personal supervision of Mr. W. A. Weight. The defendant had been employed by the two companies for 14 years up to June 23, and was in charge of the cash in the tourist department. He made all payments and received all monies. On June 23 the cash of the two departments was amalgamated and the defendant was placed in charge of it. He had a voucher for every transaction.

Checking System.

Mr. Loseby explained that all money taken by the defendant was placed in a cash box for which he had a key. This box was in turn placed in a combination safe which he could shut but could not open. Only three European officers knew the safe combination.

After explaining the checking system adopted by the company, Mr. Loseby dealt with events following June 30. That day, he said, was a bank holiday, but the offices had been open for a few hours. The following day was Saturday and a half holiday. Evidence would be given that cash was in the box on Saturday. Sunday was a holiday, and on Monday, when the office was opened, the defendant was missing.

The safe and cash box were opened and it was found that the bulk of the money was missing.

Mr. Loseby mentioned a letter received by one of the staff from the defendant on the day of his disappearance. He also referred to the defendant's statement to the police in which he was alleged to have said "I did embezzle some money. I don't know how much."

Mr. Loseby referred to the disappearance of 630 rupees. This he said was in the cash box on June 30 when it was seen by Mr. Weight. On the Monday it was missing, and evidence would be given that there had been no transactions in rupees during the intervening period.

Similar evidence, he said, would be given regarding guilders, francs, United States silver dollars, and Australian bank notes.

Sessions Suggested.

Mr. Loseby asked that the case be sent to the Sessions. He said that he came into the case with the full agreement of the Police authorities and on the understanding that he would be pressing for a committal to the utmost. The maximum summary penalty of six months had been inadequate to act as a deterrent; there had been a prevalence of embezzlements of late, and he had been asked by them to initiate a new regime by asking his Worship to send all such cases to the Supreme Court.

Mr. Lee intimated that he was going to oppose such application by Mr. Loseby. He argued that each case was dependent on its own merits, and in any circumstance, the discretion always remained to the Magistrate of dealing with the case summarily or sending it up to the higher Court.

After some discussion, his Worship said he would take the evidence as for committal in the ordinary way, and in reserving to himself his discretionary power, would consider the question of committal or otherwise at a later stage.

Evidence was then called, and Det. Sergt. C. T. Byron gave formal testimony regarding his arrest of the accused on a warrant.

Statement Made.

When charged at the Central Police Station, the accused after being duly cautioned made a statement.

The statement was put in by an Interpreter and was as follows: "I had embezzled some money; I don't know how much."

Mr. N. J. Perrin, local manager of Messrs. Thomas Cook and Son, who was the next witness called, said that the defendant had risen from the position of a bank messenger to assistant bank cashier, with control of the banking cash.

Mr. Perrin detailed defendant's duties, and had not finished his evidence when the Court adjourned.

SPLENDID WELCOME EVERYWHERE

London, Nov. 18.

He was also accorded a great welcome when he appeared at the Ex-Service Men's Colony at Cregagh, on the outskirts of Belfast, and later, to the delight of 400 patients, he went round several wards of the Royal Victoria Hospital.

This evening he made a brief and very speech, which was broadcast in Northern Ireland and was relayed from English stations.—British Wireless.

30,000 JOBLESS IN CANTON

REGISTRATION NOW REQUIRED

Canton, Nov. 18.
In order to ascertain the number of unemployed in the city, the Canton Special Kuomintang headquarters has notified all labour unions to register their members who are without employment. The object is to find out the living conditions of the workers and to devise ways and means for their welfare.

Blank forms will be sent to the different unions in the city with a notification that all members who are without work must register by filling in the blank forms. In addition to stating the name and membership of his union, the jobless man has to mention his vocation, state how long he has been without work and why he lost it.

Registration has to be made once every three months so as to keep the Canton Kuomintang fully informed with the latest labour conditions in the city. After the forms have been filled in the unions have to return them to the Party headquarters for file and reference.

The Central Press learned today from unofficial sources that there are about 30,000 unemployed in Canton, many of whom have returned from the Straits Settlements, Philippines and other foreign colonies, where they have been thrown out of work owing to the present depression.—Central Press.

Franchise is said to have been the nature of a murder at Castle Peak on October 18, when the body of a young Chinese was found on the hillside bearing evidence of his having been done to death. In a warrant issued by the police yesterday, the "wanted man" is named as an elder brother of the murdered youth.
